A Yankee and a Frenchman owned a pig in co-partnership. When kill-ing time came, they wished to divide the carcass. The Yankee was anxious to divide, so that he could get both hindquarters, and persuaded the Frenchman that the proper way to divide was to cut it across the back. The Frenchman agreed to it on condition that the Yunkes would sists?" "An architect, sir, prepares turn his back and take choice of the piece after it was cut in the two. The Yankee turned his back, and the Freuchman asked: "Vieh peece vill you have? Ze peece vid de tail on him, or de peece vat ain't got no tail on?" 'The piece with the tail!" shouted the Yaukee, instantly. "Den, Oh, very well, Mr. Architect, that by gar, you take him, and I take to GIVE US A CALL. will do; and now, after your very in- od. r," said the Frenchman.
